REFLECTION

I love working with the youth of this congregation. It is a privilege for me to be part of a group of young people who are being taught that God loves them for the unique people they are, supported in their growing and evolving spiritual ideas and nurtured through love. I hope I am being a significant part of their faith support here. My more selfish motivation has to do with living vicariously through them.

My formative years were filled with the kind of Christian rigidity that I feel leaves little room for individuality. Before I start blaming my parents for everything, I should probably take a step back. My dad and mom gave me a lot of the foundations that still inform and guide my faith today. Going to church was a large part of my upbringing. I understand the importance of being in fellowship with other likeminded people because of them. My father particularly, has taught me a lot of scripture, and I still appreciate the emphasis they both put on family.

On the other hand, they endorsed a church environment that excluded anything deemed "secular" or "worldly". For a kid who loves metal music, Dungeons and Dragons, Star Trek and MTV, it made me feel shame and hate for "being me". Just for some perspective, I wasn't promiscuous, I rarely swore, and I didn't even challenge my parent's and the church's rules . . . much. Still, I felt unworthy to be a part of God's family. The image of Christ created for me was more of a hardened lawyer than a loving, compassionate Teacher.

I bounced from church to church, but nothing felt right. What in myself was I so scared and afraid of? Well, I wish it was a simple answer. It took years of counseling and love and acceptance from my true Christian friends before I could set foot again in a church and not feel ashamed.

One thing for certain was the deep realization that Christ loved me and accepted me no matter how bad I thought I was. Because of this, I learned to forgive myself. That is what allows me today to continue unhindered in my walk with God.

Wouldn't it be nice if our youth could have a non-judgmental, non-rigid true look into Christ's life through His love and understanding? That is my goal for our children and youth. They can feel accepted here and loved as Christ loves all of us. That is the environment I want our kids to be raised in, so they know they can be anything they want, and Christ will accept them at their lowest, hardest or most shameful and still forgive them. ~Joshua Gilstrap-Katen

Finding Our Voices

May 6 - Giving Voice to the Voiceless - Mark 9:14-27 - A father brings his son to Jesus because a spirit prevents him from speaking. Jesus casts out the spirit. Who are those today who are unable to speak and how can the church give voice to them?

May 13 - A Mother's Challenge - Mark 7:24-30 - When a Gentile woman brings her daughter to Jesus for healing, Jesus gives a surprising response. For the sake of her daughter, the woman challenges Jesus. Who are we willing to challenge for the benefit of our daughters (or sons or whomever)?

I know for certain that we never lose the people we love,
even to death they continue to participate in every act,
thought and decision we make.
Their love leaves an indelible imprint in knowing that our lives have been enriched by having shared their love.

Rejoice that Laura Hay of the Modesto Church of the Brethren has been called to serve the Church of the Brethren as Youth Peace Advocate by the Youth Peace Travel Team coordinating team. The Youth Peace Travel Team is a cooperative project of several denominational agencies. This summer, Laura will travel to church camps and National Youth Conference to teach about peace, justice, and reconciliation, all core values of the Church of the Brethren. Through the summer, look for updates from her travels at www.brethren.org/youthpeacetravelteam.

We keep in our prayers those anticipating new joys in the near future, those grieving the loss of loved ones, those needing healing of all sorts, and those seeking clarity, wisdom and to be faithful on their journey with Jesus. We are thankful for the caring, sharing, supportive community of this congregation and the mercy and grace of God in our lives each day.

Senior Ministries-Wonders Down Under!

Flightless birds, glowing worms in caves, towering palms and ferns in lush rainforests, deep fjords cutting into snow-capped peaks, lovely lakes and roaring rivers, gushing geysers and bubbling mud pools, sheep-covered rolling hills, sparkling seashores.... Just a few of the many wonders to be found down under in New Zealand.

On Thursday, May 17, join us for our Senior Ministries lunch and then a virtual tour of some of the sights that awed travelers Linda & Eldon Williams, Dave & Linda Owen, Loren & Corrine Baker on their visit to New Zealand earlier this spring. Lunch is served at 12:00 Noon for $7. Please sign up on the board by the drinking fountains to let our cooks know to count you in. (P.S. Dave promises NOT to show all of his 2,000+ pictures.) But maybe just one or two!

These statues are of moa, flightless birds that once lived in New Zealand, but are now extinct.

Some of the beautiful scenery of New Zealand that you will see at the Senior Ministries event!

Come and see much more!
